INDIA'S GENEROSITY BRITISH CAUSE DESPITE COMMUNAL DISPUTES

LONDON, Dec. 15 (BWS).-In a statement yesterday in the House of Lords, the Secretary for India, Marquis of Zetland, said that the Indian Princes and peoples continued to express their "detestation of the crimes perpetrated by Nazi Germany against all the laws of God and man" and instanced the Viceroy's Fund, which totalled £475,000, for which no appeal had been made.

Further examples were gifts; from the Maharaja of Gondal and the Nawab of Rampur, the former having allocated £7,500 for the dependents of those lost in the Royal Oak and the latter had given 1.000,000 runees for motor ambulances.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE --For the benefit of German propagandists, who spent their time explaining the plight of the Indian people, the Marquis of Zetland said he would like to add a single other example of generosity.

"In one district in the Puniab, with few wealthy people among the residents, the Governor was recently handed a wholly unsolicited gift of 17,000

How Doctors Treat Stomach Trouble

Personally, I know nothing to equal 'Bisurated' Magnesla as a speedy and lasting rethe powder, or four of the tablets, ing Congress demands. and there is an end of the trouble. Neither was assistance limited to money gifts. Among the martial races there had been a spontaneour and eager desire to enlist in the forces.

POLITICAL DISPUTE Turning to the political field, the Marquis of Zetland regretted to say that difficulties persisted. While in the Punjab, Bengal and Sind the "Governments' Legislatures were successfully functioning and in Assam an alternative Government had accepted office. in seven other provinces; which had Congress Ministries, the administration had been taken over by the Governors. Although the transition was effected smoothly and, broadly speaking, the policies were assented by the Legislatures before the resignations being carried out, the transfer was contrary to the desire of the British Government and had put back the hands of the clock 30 years:

The Marquis of Zetland dealt' with the latest Congress statement medy for all digestive troubles. If and said that the Government I eat anything that disagrees with could not agree that no comme I take either a teaspoonful of munal differences arose in meet-

MAIN DIFFICULTY

He pointed out that no constitution could be expected to function successfully unless met by the assent of the minorities. The main difficulty was still the differences of opinion between the Congress and the Moslem League.

Although a numerical minority. there between eighty and ninety millions affected.

The Marquis of Zetland appealed to the leaders of both sides to call a truce and said he had derived some little encouragement from the report that Pandi! Jawaharlal Nehru and Mr. Jinnah had arranged for a further discussion, which, he hoped, would cover a wide field.

In conclusion, the Marguis of Zetland said that the internal difficulties did not leseen the abhorrence with which Indian creeds and communities viewed the Nazi system.

GROTESQUE IDEA German propaganda suggested that India should look to Nazi Germany for freedom

"The conception of Herr Hitler as the liberator is so grotesque as to bring a smile to the face of anyone, except possibly a German. If Herr Hitler and his associates imagine they may look for aid from India, they are heading for one of the greatest disillusionments of their lives," concluded the Marquis. "

$1,000 CLAIM AGAINST CABARET PROPRIETOR: DEFENDANT TESTIFIES

In the Summary Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell a claim for $1.082 was brought by Daniel Lee against R. Woodcraft, proprietor of the defunct Coconut Grove cabaret, West Point, and Tai Tung-kee,

The money was due, plaintiff alleges, under a written undertaking made and given by the defendants dated May 9, 1939.

Particulars of the claim are: Passage to Singapore for plaintiff and wife, $370; cash for expenses on board, $100; daily expenses at $4 per day from May 30 to October 30, 1939, $612. Plaintiff waives the sum of $82 in order to bring the action within the jurisdiction of the Summary Court.

Plaintiff was represented by Mr. J M. D'Almada Remedios, while Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for the defence.

Defendant, in evidence, said that he was at present pperating the Rex Cabaret. He first met plaintiff, who was partner with second defendant of the Kwong Chau ballroom, in March last, and a proposition was made to him in connexion with the business.

FIFTY-FIFTY BASIS

First asked for a loan of $5,000 for the business, witness said he and second defendant evenutally arranged to carry on the business on a fiffy-fifty basis, plaintiff to therefrom. Witness said, he asked for a list of the debts of the business, which amounted to $4,500. He believed plaintiff when he said the debts were that figure. Subsequent to that, the undertaking mentioned was entered into. One of the terms of the undertaking, said witness, was that plaintiff should attend to all claims and legal proceedings in connection with the debts, as he was the only person who knew anything about them.

If it had been disclosed to him at the time the agreement was made that the debts were substantially more than $4.500, said witness, he would not have entered into the agreement.

The hearing was then adjourned. A counter-claim has been filed.

BUILT IN 1901

Mr. J. Hempsey, of the Building Authority, testified that the tenament house was built in 1901, and was approved by the authorities then. The premises were extensively alterated in 1920. He submitted to the Court a "most upto-date" plan of the house which was made in 1920. He said that there was no fire-escape on the floors and the staircase and floor were entirely built of wood.

Regarding the partition between balconies, he said that the authorities allowed such divisions constructed not more than threeand-a-half feet in height. Permits would not be granted if tenants or landlords wanted build them higher than the height specified.

Following a brief retirement, the jury returned a verdict of accidental death and added a rider pointing out the inadequate provision of fire-escapes in tenament houses of this type.

In Japan, the situation is far different. failure of the Korean crop has seriously upset the food situation within the Mikado's empire, causing an abrupt rise of almost" 30 per cent in the price of the staple. The effort of keeping one and half million men constantly under arms has involved, above all, a drain on the agricultural man-power the nation. .. Attempts transplant to the land hundreds of thousands of textile workers thrown out of employment by the partial closing of the Osaka mills have ended in failure; chiefly through the resistance of the workers themselves. The fact that the increased rice price came almost simultaneously with decrees fixing the level of wages has added further to the discontent, and feeling against the continuance of the war in China, rightly regarded as the source of all the trouble, is constantly on the increase. POCKET BATTLESHIP SEEK REFUGE TERRIBLE MAULING

Decks A Shambles Of Dead And Wounded

LONDON, Dec. 15 (Reuter)—The latest, but badly damaged, Nazi pocket-battleship, Admiral Graf Spee, is now licking her wounds, which are plainly visible from the shore, in Montevideo, while outside a British warship is sailing up and down on patrol.

The damage to the Admiral Graf Spee has put the Germans in somewhat of a predicament. The German Minister in Montevideo says she was forced into harbour by lack of fuel.

At the same time, the Berlin Official German News Agency is alleging that the British warships used mustard gas, which spoiled part of the ship's food and that is why she put in to Montevideo.

REINFORCED SQUADRON

MONTEVIDEO, Dec. 15 (Reuter) -A strongly reinforced squadron of British warships is patrolling 'the mouth of the River Plate, outside of Montevideo, where the Graf Spee is expected to remain until Sunday at the least.

It is announced that the Uruguayan Government might allow herto remain as long as is necessary to make repairs and the same facility would be granted to British warships.

A very good reason for thinking that she may accept internment for the duration of the war, rather than risk another engagement, is that the crew is effecting such repairs as they can themselves as shipyard engineers have refused the request for assistance by the German Legation and a company is also preventing its steel from being used by any other concern for the purpose.

Sixty-two survivors of British U.S. $Press\ On$ landed last hight.

Interviewed, they confirmed that there was no truth in the gas shells allegation and reckoned that the Graf Spee was hit 16 times.

LONDON, Dec. 15 (Reuter)—A talk on the battle between the three British cruisers the Admiral Graf Spee was given from Daventry by Commander Taprell-Doring, better known to his many readers as "Taffrail."

The Exeter, he said, was a vessel of 8,400 tons, carrying six eight-inch guns, while the Ajax and Achilles, sister ships of about 7,000 tons each carried eight six-inch guns. All three have a speedof about 32 knots.

The Achilles is actually one of the two cruisers in the New Zealand Squadron (the other being the Leander, the flagship) and "Taffrail" said that as she was chiefly manned by New Zealanders, congratulations were due to New Zealand for the part she had played in the first real naval engagement of this war.

POWERFUL ARMAMENTS Unlike the Rawalpindi - Deutschland battle, this one was not so onesided. Although the Admiral Graf Spee is knots slower than the British ships, she carries six eleven-inch guns firing a shell of 716-pounds each, with a range limited only by visibility and distance. " the same range, were only 256pounds while the man-handled six-inch shells of the Ajax and achilles weight only 100-pounds.

A broadside from the Graf Spee, therefore, would weigh about 4,708-pounds, while a broadside from the combined British ships would only weigh 3.136-pounds. None of the four ships were heavily armoured and a single shell from the Nazi ship might well have sunk one of the British ships. But, in the traditional style of the Royal Navy, our ships did not hesitate. They attacked the German vessel and forced her to take refuge in a battered condition.

British Answer To Protests Over Bremen Incident

NO DESCENT TO NAZI METHODS OF WARFARE

LONDON, Dec. 15 (Reuter)-The Yorkshire Post points out editorially that there is a very clear answer both to the sneers of the enemy and the surprised protests of friends, regarding the forbearance of the British submarine which refrained from torpedoing the Bremen.

ST. LAZARUS: CARDINAL MUNDELEIN: ANOTHER LOSS TO CHURCH

Tomorrow, Dec. 17 there is a traditional celebration in many places of the resurrection of Lazarus, whose dramatic restorntion to life at the command of Christ is vividly described by St. John, who was evidently an eye-witness, " Of what happened to him after that, beyond the fact that the Gospel tells us of the Jews' desire to have him killed, we have no certain knowledge. FRENCH LEGEND

The French legend is not so old, but it is equally persistent. begins in the same way with the leaking boat but says that the three who were in it were brought to the south of France, where Lazarus became first Bishop of Marseilles. The little town of Les Saintes Maries commemorates the supposed landing place of Magdalen, Martha, Mary the mothe of St. James, Lazarus, and a black servant Sarah, to whom the gipsies of Provence have great devotion.

There is no foundation for these stories, which cannot be traced further back than the eleventh century, it seems likely that the legends arose through confusion about the name, for there was a pishop named Lazarus in Aix the 5th century.

For more than fifty years he turned out an unending series of articles and pamphlets dealing with great member of subjects requiring research, all of them containing balanced judgment and all well documented. Readers of any of the leading Catholic periodicals in England have for years been familier with his name, or with the initials "H. T." He was known chiefly as a critic of anything savouring of charlatanism.

In his rigid insistence on examining proof and evidence in the greatest detail he has had considerable influence on the Catholic thought of his day. By many he was considered iconoclastic, yet none questioned his fairness in dealing with any evidence that was presented to him.

PEW QUESTION PAPERS

Christianity and Euthansia; Is God justified in letting our men die on the battlefield so that Peace may be won? The vital things of life;

Christian charity:

The origin of hymns;

Should a Christian always tell the truth, even to the extent of hurting someone else? Are "white lies" ever justifiable?

Church's definition of Heaven; Spiritual healing.

These are some of the subjects people would like dealt with according to replies to pamphlets put in the pews of St. Andrew's Church. some weeks ago which asked:-

1. Will you please state some hymns in our St. Andrew's Hymn books, you would like sung.

2. A subject or questions you would like the Vicar to deal with in his sermons.

A note in the Andrian says, "Already we have preached on some Notices: All seafarers are in-Confessions morning and evening of the subjects. We shall preach on the others when the opportunity arises and if we feel that the discussion of the subject would be really helpful or instructive to the congregation."

H.K. STOCK EXCHANGE

MANILA GOLD SHARES The past week has been reminiscent of the more palmy days of the share market. It opened with enquiries entering the market at first haltingly, but as the week wore on the volume of trading gained strength and signs of confidence were more pronounced. This led to holders increasing their idea of values which traders proceeded to partially satisfy. On its becoming apparent scrip was running short, prices, were again gradually lifted, but without too much eagerness, resulting in an increase in the turnover. The advance in price level has been quietly maintained, and at the close they are a distinct improvement on those at the opening of the week, and the thirst for scrip Closing tone, encouraging.

COTTON: There were heavy profit-taking and Southern selling against Loan repossessions which was met by Trade support on the scale down, demand being otherwise lacking, RUBBER: There was a broader general demand and good factory interest in nearbys and actuals, while contracts were scarce. Nevember consumption of 54,322 tons is above expectations and is causing an upward revision of the estimates for December, We would remain bullish believing that the scarcity of supplies will soon be felt here.

WHEAT: Prices declined on the easiness of the Canadian markets, but sizable profit-taking and realizing was well absorbed. The tions being 23.3/8 for Ready and | mill markets are steady while the cash market remains firm." No in-23.9/16 for Forward.
